

ABSTRACT

Described is a game including a base unit, a target area, a launch area, and an electronic controller. The target area is attached to the base unit and has multiple target sections. The launch area is attached to the base and is configured for bouncing a playing 5 piece into one of the multiple target sections. The electronic controller is configured to monitor the target sections and control game play.

40180894.doc